A BRIEF REPORT ON THE PROGRESS OF WORK UP TO 15-9-1953.

Before the announcement of the Board it will be recollected that several attempts were made by the Education Ministry for an attempt at compiling a History of the Freedom Movement in India. From the files of that Ministry now passed on to the Board, it appears that various institutions, organisations and individuals were approached to help the Government in the collection of relevant materials. But it seems that no response worth mention was forthcoming at that time.

2. In order to appreciate the progress of work made, it is necessary that the Board's plan for the collection of materials is properly stressed. It is to be noted that the Board has decided that the Freedom Movement taken as an integrated whole, can be viewed and analysed in three distinctive phases-

a) Resistance activities of the people of India against British rule in India established in different times and different places, leading up to the great up-heaval of 1857 when the then natural leaders of India combined themselves into a single command to overthrow the British Supremacy once for all. Soon after 1857 this phase came to an end.

b) The second phase may be said to have started from 1885 when the Indian National Congress came into being and continued up to 1919 just before the advent of Gandhiji in Indian politics.

c) The third phase can be taken to have commenced from 1920 culminating in the transfer of power in August 1947, framing of the Constitution and the Great Election of 1952.

GENERAL.

3. Collection of Materials.

i) For the collection of materials, draft directive principles were enunciated and circulated to all members of the Board for their comments. In the meeting of the Board of Editors held on the 9th August 1953, these principles were discussed and adopted finally after some additions and alterations. For details Appendices 'A' and 'B' may kindly be seen. They have been circulated to all State Governments and State Committees. Besides detailed instructions have also been issued as to what specific assistance is expected from the State Committees vide Appendix 'C'.

ii) Complete collection of all pre-1857 resistance activities throughout India as could be found in all Gazetters has already been done. This work has been in charge of Mr. R.G. Khanna, Research Officer who is now working under the direction and supervision of the Director, Dr. R.C. Majumdar.

iii) Letters have been addressed to all regional members and also to different States to collect materials published in local languages connected with the life and activities of the heroes of such resistance activities at different times and also the heroes of the 1857 movement.

This list was drawn up on the basis of books obtainable in different Libraries of India. To facilitate work in the Board's Central Office, some books have been purchased and it is proposed to buy a few more during this year. The Director himself prepared a draft report, a copy of which is enclosed herewith (Appendix 'E'). Moreover the Director is making a special study to prepare a complete sketch of History up to 1884 by the end of March 1954.

4. Regional Office and State Committees.

BENGAL.

i) Bengal

In Calcutta, there are hundreds of volumes of weekly digest of all the papers which were published from the very beginning of the British Rule. These volumes were prepared by the British government till about 1947. Under the direction of Dr. S.N.Sen, Regional Member-in-charge, Shri P.K.Acharya, a life-long political sufferer who was educated in the Edinburgh University has been appointed to study these volumes and he has already submitted his first report to Dr. Sen. Also there are about 1500 files containing most authentic and valuable information about Freedom Movement from 1901 to 1947. Some of these files contain voluminous printed books covering 1000 or more pages. All these 1500 files are secret and confidential documents. Dr. S.N.Sen and Prof.N.B.Roy of Santiniketan are going through them to prepare a connected narrative. To give some idea of these records, an extract detailing a few files with contents therein is enclosed herewith(Appendix 'F'). There is a large number of rare books in the Goethal's Library Calcutta. To our knowledge, some of them are to be found nowhere in India and they relate to the 1857 movement. Under the direction of Dr. S.N.Sen, Dr. P.C.Gupta has been entrusted with the work of preparing a detailed bibliography of these volumes bearing on the 1857 movement.

Some retired I.B.Officials like Rai Bahadur Nalini Kanta Majumdar, Rai Bahadur Sashadhar Majumdar, Rai Sahib Sashi Bhushan Bhattacharyya and a few others have been approached. A few personal statements from such persons have been secured and a few more will be collected.

Correspondence is being made with the Indian Ambassador there to expedite collection of materials.

At present Dr. Venkataramanayya is digesting two volumes in the Madras Records Office entitled "Histories of Non-co-operation and Khilafat Movements and "Non-co-operation and Khilafat Movement in the Madras Presidency." v) For collection of materials in West Punjab, NWFP, Baluchistan and Sind un-official contacts are being made. With the guidance of the Chairmen, Lala Feroze Chand is trying to enlist the co-operation of the Pakistan authorities. It is difficult to secure official records from these States.

i) For collection of materials in U.K. specially in London, attempts have been made through our High Commissioner to collect information about the Old India Office Library.

K. KRISHNA MENON.

ii) ~~Mr~~ Valuable contact has been made with Mr. V.K. Krishna Menon for securing materials connected with the India League. Further development is awaited. Before leaving for the United States, Mr. Menon has advised that the Board should be in constant touch with him through correspondence so that the matter can be expeditiously attended to. Mr. Menon is, however, of the definite opinion that the three-year period is too short for compilation of the work entrusted to the Board of Editors.

iii) We are in correspondence with Shri S. Dutt, Indian Ambassador in West Germany as well as Mr. Nambiar. Both have promised full co-operation and support. But they have stated that it would take some time to collect valuable materials in Europe bearing on the Freedom Movement in India. It is reliably reported that he has much valuable information in his possession.

8. Prizes.

To stimulate research activities and thereby to facilitate the work of the Board of Editors in its compilation of the proposed History, a number of prizes will be awarded for best essays on ^{people's} ~~public's~~ contribution to the Freedom Movement. For details please see Appendix 'H'.

9. This is in brief a short summary of the activities and actual progress made by the Board so far. It is to be borne in mind that although the Board of Editors was announced by the Ministry of Education on the 31st Dec. 1952, it actually started functioning from 24th April, 1953, after it could secure the present office accommodation consisting of two rooms only. It is to be emphasised that due to lack of accommodation, all the different Branches of the Board's office cannot possibly be organised with the result that the desired progress is being considerably hampered. Besides, the help that is expected from the State Govts. in the collection of materials is yet to come in its fullest measure. The expectation of the Board in this regard thus remains unfulfilled so far.

To
All Members of the Board,

Dear Sir,

I think it is necessary in order to facilitate the work of collecting materials that some specific directions should be given to the workers who may be engaged for this purpose. Some general directions have already been given in the following documents regarding the sort of materials that it would be necessary to collect:-

- (i) Letter No. 1722/50- A/2 dated 31/3/50 from the Ministry of Education.
- (ii) The draft outline of the scheme of History adopted at the meeting of the Board of Editors held on January 1953.
- (iii) Letter No. - HFI-8/85-53 dated the 20th Feb. 1953 from Mr. S.M. Ghose, Hony. Secretary, Board of Editors.

A copy of each of these documents is being forwarded to you for ready reference.

I enclose some specific instructions for the collection of materials in order that special attention of the workers may be drawn to materials bearing upon some particular and concrete facts. As you will see, these instructions are by way of supplementing the other documents. They are also illustrative rather than exhaustive in character and should be treated as such.

I shall be glad if you will kindly make any further suggestions in this matter so that on the basis of these I may draw up a further set of instructions for collection of materials.

As you know, there would be a meeting of the Board of Editors, towards the end of July and I suggest that, if necessary, this subject may be considered in that meeting.

Yours faithfully,

SD/-DR. R.C. MAJUMDAR, DIRECTOR.

(DRAFT) GENERAL DIRECTIONS FOR THE COLLECTION OF MATERIALS.

The plan and scheme of the History of Freedom Movement, which was adopted at the first meeting of the Board held in January 1953 gives a general idea of the sort of materials to be collected in the different zones. The following directions merely seek to emphasise certain points and are not intended to be an exhaustive or even fairly comprehensive list of works to be done in different zones.

1. In view of the paucity of materials for the pre-Mutiny period special efforts should be made to find out written records published or unpublished, throwing light on the following topics, among others.

a) The first reaction among the people (or different sections of it, such as, Hindus, Muslims, Sikhs, etc. if there be any difference of outlook among them in this respect) to the establishment of British Rule. In Bengal, for example, Raja Ram Mohan Roy had in his early life "a feeling of great aversion to the establishment of the British Power in India." But at the age of twenty he changed his views and felt that the Indian were much happier in the enjoyment of civil and religious liberty than were their ancestors. It should be our endeavour to find out, on the basis of written records, how far these different views prevailed in different regions.

b) The spread of English education with special reference to the agencies, institutions, curriculum etc. The first effects of this education on social, religious, and political ideas.

c) The first individual expressions of discontent against British Rule and yearnings for freedom or improvement of political status of the Indians.

d) Organization of associations for political reforms. Specific demands or suggestions should be noted.

e) A short account of the newspapers and periodicals, both in English and Vernacular, which helped to disseminate political views.

f) Political views expressed in local literature, both English and Vernacular.

g) Short biography of persons who moulded public opinion on political matters.

h) Any social or religious reform which had a bearing on the evolution of political ideas or love of liberty.

i) Open resistance or secret conspiracy against the Govt. by any organized body. (Causes and details of operations to be noted.)

II. For the proper study of the Mutiny of 1857 as a part of the National struggle for freedom the following points in relation to different localities deserve careful enquiry.

a) The part played by the civil population in propaganda and actual resistance.

b) The general attitude of the masses towards the Sepoys and the British.

c) Actual incidents in different localities (apart from major military operation or outbreaks of which details are given in certain historical books on the subject.

General.

Special endeavour should be made to collect materials, such as, newspaper reports, books, biographies, court cases records, personal statements, eye-witnesses account contemporary literature, photographs, published leaflets, posters, booklets etc. which might be of use in understanding any phase of the revolutionary movements.

Collection should also be made for this purpose of folk songs, dramas, literature and other arts etc. which directly or indirectly helped the Freedom Movement.

M E M O R A N D U M.

The Board has to decide the question about the beginning of the Freedom Movement. Normally speaking, the question of regaining freedom does not arise until it is lost, and it stands to reason, therefore, that the history of Freedom Movement in India should begin after the dates when the different parts of India were subjugated by the British. It has, however, been suggested in some quarters (and one of the gentlemen present in the last meeting of the Board gave expression to this view) that we should take into consideration the causes that led to the loss of our independence and therefore, incidentally treat the period following the disintegration of the Moughal Empire. If I remember alright the gentleman referred to above suggested that we should begin from the invasion of Nadir Shah. Personally I do not approve of this idea and I think a discussion into the causes which led to the loss of independence would unnecessarily involve us into many intriguing problems, no solution of which is possible at present.

However, it is necessary that the Board should make up its mind on this point so that there may be no misunderstanding or controversy after the first draft is prepared.

I propose to begin with a short reference to the gradual conquest of the different regions of India by the British and trace the beginnings of Freedom Movement in those regions after such conquests.

It is also to be distinctly understood that although we are writing the history of the Freedom Movement, a clear conception or desire for freedom from the British yoke did not manifest itself to the Indian Intelligentsia till long after the Congress was started. To begin with, therefore, we shall concentrate more on demand for political reforms i.e. removal of abuses and granting of extension of power and a higher political status to the Indians.

It is true that there were resistance movements some of which may have a more deliberate aim to drive the British, but this cannot be regarded as a continuous movement backed by the political leaders either of the Congress or of the Organizations that preceded it during the 19th Century. While, therefore, we should take full cognizance of the different resistance movements and the great rising of 1857 as an attempt to drive away the British either from certain localities or from India, we have to Freedom Movement in a more liberal manner so far as the political evolution is concerned, and we have to include in our history the beginnings of those demands for political reform, and extension of political rights and privileges which ultimately culminated in the open demand for Swaraj in the Congress Session of 1906 and an absolute independence on the occasion of the annual Session of the Congress in 1930 at Lahore.

I mention these facts so that we may have a clear idea of the extended meaning we propose to give to the Freedom Movement. I believe that if these preliminary points are made quite clear and are generally agreed by all, there would be less occasion for difference of opinion at a later stage. I am, therefore, circulating this note to the Members of the Board for an expression of their opinion.

Sub:-COMPILATION OF A HISTORY OF FREEDOM MOVEMENT IN INDIA COLLECTION OF NECESSARY MATERIAL.

Sir, As the State Governments are perhaps aware, the Ministry of Education have ^{you}undertaken the task of compiling an authoritative History of the Freedom Movement in India, the purpose of which is not merely to have a correct record of the significant phases in India's national history but also to place before the world at large the various phases and techniques of this struggle which was unique in its character. The Government of India have, therefore, as a first step, appointed a Committee under the Chairmanship of Dr. Tara Chand, M.A.D.Phil, Educational Adviser to the Government of India, to supervise the collection from all possible sources of the necessary material for the preparation of such a History. The Committee propose to make a survey from the year 1870, i.e. a few years prior to the foundation of the Indian National Congress, to 15th August, 1947, when India attained independence. For this purpose it will be necessary for the Committee to examine all records-official and non-official available in India. Enquiries will also be made from foreign countries for the supply of necessary material.

2. The Govt. of India believe that considerable material is in possession of the State Government in the shape of records, ^{in your possession} police diaries, memoirs of the political leaders, living and dead, newspapers, both contemporary and defunct, leaflets, pictures, illustrations, blocks, etc. which may throw some light on the history of freedom movement. especially the records of Home, Prison, and judicial departments and Governor's Secretariat which are likely to prove more informative. The Government of India would be glad if the State Government will assist this Ministry ^{you} and furnish to them as much useful material as is available in the preparation of History.

Any information concerning such material of names and addresses of such persons as may have either first hand knowledge of any events or phases of the struggle or have in their possession letters, papers etc. which may throw light upon the history may also kindly be furnished to this Ministry.

OFFICE OF THE BOARD OF EDITORS,
HISTORY OF FREEDOM MOVEMENT IN INDIA,
21, QUEENSWAY, NEW DELHI.

Ref.No. HFI-8/85-53

February, 20, 1953.

Dear Sir,

The Board of Editors constituted for compiling the History of the Freedom Movement in India have had under consideration the question of methodically and scientifically collecting material which, it will be realised, is an arduous task in consideration of the fact that the period under review commences from 1857 and closes in the year 1952. It has been tentatively decided that the work of collecting materials should be directed in the following spheres.

(i) HISTORY OF EVENTS.

It may be made clear that since 1857, organised activities as well as isolated action took place throughout India calculated to demoralise British rule resulting in its final overthrow. These events should be compiled from authoritative sources in a chronological order showing their origin, development and the results including failures and the reasons therefor. Special research should be instituted in unfathoming sources of materials connected with secret revolutionary activities to find out whether there was any link between these and the 1857 movement. All official records on the subject in the possession of the British Government have been destroyed. In respect of the period 1859- 1885 an intensive study of original sources is essential.

(ii) JOURNALISTIC LITERATURE.

As is well-known, in any upsurge of national upheaval, a significant part is played by journals. There was no exception in this regard so far as the Freedom Movement in India is concerned. Numerous journals, daily, bi-weekly, fortnightly sprang up with the sole object of stimulating the nationalist spirit and their contribution in the building up of the movement is not negligible. Mention may specially be made of papers like Vande Mataram edited by Aurobindo, Keshri edited by Tilak, Al Hilal by Maulana Abul Kalam Azad, and Gandhiji's Young India and Navayuga, which are still considered as treasures. It is accordingly suggested that journalistic productions should be investigated for assessing their contribution towards imparting life to the Freedom Movement. The approach in this regard should be scientific without any bias and prejudice.

(iii) LITERATURE.

In any revolution or freedom movement, contemporary literature plays a very important role, e.g. the writings of Voltaire and Rousseau vis a vis their influence on the moulding of the French Revolution. Literature being more or less a forceful and beautiful representation of contemporary social life, the movements that shook British India undoubtedly left their impression on poets and authors who in their turn gave their best to feed the movement. A historical study of literature from this point of view should be conducted to ascertain their worth in the field of national movement. Due weight may be given to the writings of political leaders with a facile pen. Similar importance should be attached to national songs (e.g. Vande Mataram, Hindusthan Hamara etc.) dohas, folk lores, visual dramas etc.

2. A number of other potent factors which influenced the Freedom Movement directly and indirectly should demand attention. The Industrial Revolution in Europe, the impact of European culture, the American War of Independence, the French Revolution, the Italian War of Independence and the personalities connected with it, the Russian Revolution and the two Great World Wars and other wars like the Boer War, etc., each produced its effects upon the eager minds of men whose activities determined the shape of the Freedom Movement. An objective study in this field is called for.

3. To facilitate work connected with the compilation of the History of the Freedom Movement, the Board have provisionally decided to demarcate the following periods which coincide with certain distinct phases of the movement.

- (a) 1857-1884.
- (b) 1885-1917, (1885-1905-1917)
- (c) 1918-1921 (1917-1919-1921)
- (d) 1922-1928.
- (e) 1929-1937;
- and (f) 1938-1942-1947-1952.

In the matter of collection of materials on the lines indicated in the preceding paragraphs, these periods may also be taken into consideration so that it may be possible to proceed in a well defined manner.

4. The Board want to impress on all concerned the national importance of the work and it is, therefore, requested that efforts should forthwith be made in all seriousness and sincerity in order that this sacred task may be discharged within the stipulated period of three years.

Yours faithfully,

HONY.MEMBER SECRETARY.

DIRECTIVE PRINCIPLES FOR COLLECTING & SIFTING MATERIALS.

- - - - -

The plan and scheme of the History of Freedom Movement, which was adopted at the first meeting of the Board held in January, 1953, gives a general idea of the sort of materials to be collected in the different zones. The following directions merely seek to emphasise certain points and are not intended to be an exhaustive or even fairly comprehensive list of works to be done in different zones.

I. In view of the paucity of materials for the pre-Mutiny period special efforts should be made to find out written records published or unpublished, throwing light on the following topics, among others.

a) The first reaction among the people (or different sections of it, such as, Hindus, Muslims, Sikhs, etc. if there be any difference of outlook among them in this respect) to the establishment of British Rule. In Bengal, for example, Raja Ram Mohan Roy had in his early life 'a feeling of great aversion to the establishment of the British power in India'. But at the age of twenty he changed his views and felt that the Indians were much happier in the enjoyment of civil and religious liberty than were their ancestors. It should be our endeavour to find out, on the basis of written records, how far these different views prevailed in different regions.

b) The spread of English education with special reference to the agencies, institutions, curriculum etc. The first effects of this education on social, religious and political ideas.

c) The first individual expressions of discontent against British Rule and yearnings for freedom or improvement of political status of the Indians.

d) Organisation of associations for political reforms. Specific demands or suggestion should be noted.

e) A short account of the newspapers and periodicals, both in English and Vernacular, which helped to disseminate political views.

f) Political views expressed in local literature, both English and Vernacular.

g) Short bibliographies of important personalities who moulded public opinion on political matters, or otherwise helped in the cause of freedom.

h) Any social or religious reform which had a bearing on the evolution of political ideas or love of liberty.

i) Open resistance or secret conspiracy against the Government by any organized body. (Causes and details of operations to be noted.)

j) Economic factors that underlay any resistance movement, secret conspiracy or evolution of political ideals.

II. For the proper study of the Mutiny of 1857, as a part of the National struggle for freedom, the following points in relation to different localities deserve ~~careful~~ enquiry.

a) The part played by the civil population in propaganda and actual resistance.

b) The general attitude of the masses towards the Sepoys and the British.

c) Actual incidents in different localities (apart from major military operation or outbreaks of which details are given in current historical books on the subject).

d) Contemporary records throwing light on the above points (including memoirs, diaries, etc. of persons actually taking part in the outbreak).

e) Old legends or ballads current in the locality on (b) and (c) above.

III. Period 1857-1885.

a-f) - same as d-i noted under I.

IV. Period 1885-1905.

a) Attitude of the different sections of the public.

b) Growing popularity of the Congress.

c-h) same as d-i noted under I.

i) Underground movement against the Govt. (Statements of persons taking prominent part in these movements should be secured as far as possible.)

V) Period 1905-1918.

a) Anti-partition agitation, boycott and swadeshi movement in Bengal; the repercussion of these and open resistance to Government in other regions.

b) Activities of Congress and Muslim League in different localities.

c) Political activities outside-Congress and Muslim League.

d) Underground movement (See IV-1).

e) Terrorism and repressive measures by the Govt. (actual) incidents of torture and oppression by the police and jail authorities narrated by the victims should be recorded.

f) Summary of political trials with reference to sources of information (whether newspaper, reports, or judicial proceedings or statements by individuals etc.)

g) Activities of Indian Nationalists in foreign countries (gathered from persons taking part in them).

h) Participation of Indians in war efforts on behalf of the British.

i) An effort should be made to procure a copy of Bhavani Mandir by Sri Aurobindo.

VI. Period 1919-1923.

a) Satyagraha Movement of 1919 - details of activities in different localities.

b) Non-violent non-cooperation Movement - Central trend and special incidents in different localities.

Statistical account (of institutions closed and newly started spinning and weaving, number of men resigning office or titles) as far as may be gathered from authentic materials.

Views and activities of opponents to the Movement.

c) Khilafat Movement (as under b) above.

d) Preparations for civil disobedience, if any.

e) Hartal on the visit of the Prince of Wales.

f) Exodus of Assam Tea-plantation coolies and strike of Railway and Steamer employees.

g) Peasant Movement in U.P.

h) Sikh Movement in the Punjab.

i) Moplah Rebellion.

b) Hindu-Muslim riots.

c) Hartal on the visit of Simon Commission.

d) Labour Movement.

e) Revolutionary activities.

f) Repressive Measures of the Government.

VIII. Period 1930-1947.

a) Civil Disobedience Movement in different localities (General trend and nature, special incidents, prominent personalities, statistical account, part taken by women).

b) Activities of Congress, Muslim League and other parties (Socialist, Hindu Maha Sabha, Forward Block, Communists, RSS etc.)

c) Political activities in Indian States.

d) 1942 - August Movement.

e) Repressive Measures of the Government.

GENERAL:

Special endeavour should be made to collect materials, such as newspaper reports, books, biographies, court cases records, personal statements, eye-witnesses accounts, contemporary literature, photographs, published leaflets, posters, booklets etc. which might be of use in understanding any phase of the revolutionary movements.

Collection should also be made for this purpose of folk songs, dramas, literature and other arts etc. which directly or indirectly helped the Freedom Movement.

A general Bibliography of available documents in each region should be drawn up as early as possible and sent to the Central office.

Each Regional Member should send to the Central Office, in the first instance, materials bearing upon the period prior to 1885 after properly sifting them.

The member I/C of each region should draw up directives for his region in the light of the above general directions, and should send them to the Central office for information and suggestions.

direct supervision of the Member-in-charge of the region.

DRAFT REPORT.

The work of collecting materials for the History of Freedom Movement in India is being carried out partly by the Central Office in Delhi and partly by the committees appointed in different states. The work of the central office consists primarily of :

- 1) Utilizing the resources available in Delhi
- 2) directing the collection of materials in the States.

As regards (1) the following works have already been accomplished i.e. preparation of bibliography and completion of a list of important books available in the different libraries in Delhi.

The valuable records in the National Archives of India are bound to be of great importance and for this purpose one of the assistants to the editor has been specially employed to explore them.

A comprehensive note has also been prepared on all the resistance movements openly directed against the British throughout India, particularly during the 19th Century.

Recently the library of the All India Congress Committee has also been visited and arrangements are being made to make a proper list not only of the printed books, but also of the records available therein relating to the important phases of activities of the Indian National Congress, specially after 1921.

As regards (2), a body of general directions has been drawn up and sent to the different zones by way of suggesting the proper line on which the workers engaged in collecting materials should proceed. In addition, specific directions are being sent from time to time, drawing the attention of the different zones to important and specific events or movements on which further detailed information is necessary.

In addition to the above work, a comprehensive note is being prepared on the documents that have been sent to the central office and by the Ministry of Education and State Governments and by private individuals.

It has been decided to divide the history into three broad periods and it is proposed to take up writing the history of the first period as soon as sufficient materials are collected. For this purpose, important books are being studied and proper summaries are being compiled. All these preliminary works are necessary before the actual writing of history can be started. It is hoped that by the close of this year or the beginning of the next, it will be possible to take up the actual writing.

A Brief Note on Work in Region No.3 for the Hony. Secy. as requested by him.

1. STATE COMMITTEES. In Himachal Pradesh and PEPSU matters stand as reported in my note at the time of the Board Meeting last month. From Punjab Government a revised list was received and accepted (August 17). But an official notification is still awaited. Pending such Notification a meeting cannot be called. But I have had several discussions with the Secretary-to be, Prof. V.S. Suri, Curator of Records, and he has already started work, particularly bibliographic work. I have also discussed certain aspects with Shri Hari Ram Gupta, University Professor of History, who is also to serve in the Committee, and under whom already a number of scholars are working on different periods of the Freedom Movement in India.

The Delhi Committee held its first meeting on September 11. This meeting served to clarify things at a preliminary exchange of views. Members have agreed to start work that can be taken in hand even before any whole-time staff is appointed. Such staff of course can be appointed only after the State Government have placed funds at the disposal of the Committee. The meeting prepared estimates for the work entrusted to it and has asked the State Government for a grant of about P.28,000/- which will be partly needed during the current financial year, and partly during the next. The Committee is scheduled to meet again on September 25 when the work will be shared amongst a number of sub-committees.

2. Books & Material etc. These have mostly been collected by correspondence or personal requests. So far practically no expense has been incurred. Most of the books etc. are borrowed copies. Quite considerable material regarding the Kuka Movement, the 1907 agitation, and the early Akali struggle has been collected and more is coming in. The material received is now being arranged under ^{certain} heading a list of which is being appended to this note. Bibliographic lists according to these heads are under preparation at the PEPsU and Punjab Records Offices. The systematic examinations of official records or of newspaper files has not been taken in hand for want of the necessary staff. I have myself made a beginning in the National Archives but so far have not been able to find much time for work there. Mr. Khanna who was recently going through Gazetteers was entrusted with certain queries by me and has given me a brief note. Some tabulating and indexing of the revolutionary trials ~~which~~ records is available at the regional or headquarters office has been carried on. I have myself gone through or consulted almost all the books in the list appended and have gone through most of the headquarters material pertaining to my zone. Some of the material has been digested or is in the course of being digested. Questions etc. for ~~the~~ purposes of interviews are being kept ready in certain cases. No touring has so far been undertaken as it was felt that it could be more profitably undertaken after the State Committees started functioning.

At present I have only one whole-time assistant working under me, Mr. Monan Lal Puri. I have used him mostly for miscellaneous errands - enquiries from ~~libraries~~ or newspaper offices, bookshops or individuals, regarding books, material etc., or regarding ~~the~~ whereabouts of people, or fixing appointments on my behalf or reminding people who have promised statements or material. He has also devoted some time to indexing and tabulating. At present among other things he is interviewing people, in particular Maulana Bahi ~~uddin~~ Rehman who is dictating a statement regarding his own and his family's contribution and regarding the Ahrar Movement, and Raizada Shanti Narain an important 1907 journalist.

I have myself interviewed some people, amongst them S. Sardar Singh Caveeshar who besides giving me valuable information regarding the Sikh Movement had information to give about Netaji. I have traced and established contacts with some important retired officials from whom I expect significant clues and material in the near future. On the 1907 movement 2 or 3 of the leading personalities are recording their reminiscences for me and these too are expected in the near future. ^{Definitive} ~~Complete~~ Notes on any of the important movements are not possible till official record and news paper files have been gone through, but I believe when this can be arranged through Staff (for which it seems I have to depend on the State Committee's grants) it will not take me long to get ready my Notes on the most important movements in my zone up to 1919.

A list of books etc. collected in this office being they

3. Miscellaneous: A committee for Sind was reported in my note for the Board Meeting. Similar Committees for N.W.F. Province and for Baluchistan are now under way (Dewan ex-finance ~~my~~ ^{my} NW F.P., Banji Ram Gandhi has collected some N.W.F. material and expects to gift it and pass it on to me in the next few days. Work in West Pakistan, however, requires certain facilities from Pakistan authorities and these have yet to be secured. As soon as at least 2 State Committees have started functioning, I propose also to set up a zonal committee, some preliminary work for which has already been done.

Amongst the miscellaneous material ~~all~~ collected some pertains to certain words like "Swaraj" which have been of vital importance in the freedom movement.

4. Certain difficulties and handicaps. I must first of all say that I have been much handicapped for lack of office accommodation. I need not elaborate the points as the secretary and Chairman know all about this.

Secondly, work in the zone has been slow because in spite of persistent reminding the State Governments have been very slow in setting up committees.

Thirdly, systematic work requires some whole-time staff and for this I have to depend entirely on the State Committees grants - which have still to materialise. I have only one whole-time assistant who is being paid only R.100/- a month. Out of my meagre grant it is not possible to add to this staff.
